

Brian Rho

Associate

One Union Square
600 University Street, Suite 3200
Seattle, WA 98101
main: (206) 623-3300
direct: (206) 381-4936
fax: (206) 447-6965
brho@littler.com

Focus Areas

Wage and Hour
Class Action
Discrimination and Harassment

Overview

Brian Rho advises and represents employers covering a broad spectrum of employment law matters. He focuses his practice on defending employers in class and collective actions under federal and Washington state wage and hour laws, and providing practical advice and conducting audits to ensure compliance. In addition, Brian advises and represents employers in discrimination, retaliation, disability and accommodation, and wrongful termination lawsuits.

While in law school, Brian served on the editorial boards of the Virginia Journal of International Law and the Virginia Journal of Criminal Law.

Professional and Community Affiliations

- Member, King County Bar Association
- Member, Board of Directors, Korean American Bar Association
- Member, National Asian Pacific American Bar Association
- Member, Asian Bar Association of Washington
- Civil Legal Advisor, Consulate General of the Republic of Korea, 2024

Education

J.D., University of Virginia School of Law, 2016
B.A., University of Washington, 2011, cum laude

Bar Admissions

Washington

Alaska

Courts

U.S. District Court, Western District of Washington

Languages

Korean

Publications & Press

Three Littler Attorneys Selected for 2024 Leadership Council on Legal Diversity Programs

Littler Press Release

April 3, 2024

Receipt of Perks Does Not Undermine “Volunteer” Status Under FLSA

Littler ASAP

March 14, 2024

Books & Book Chapters

- Washington State, Wage and Hour Laws: A State-by-State Survey, BNA, co-authors: Martell, Holdiman, and Subit, 2023