Overview

Veronica Zamago focuses her practice on a broad range of employment litigation matters, such as single plaintiff claims involving discrimination, retaliation, wrongful termination, wage and hour, and Private Attorneys General Act (PAGA) actions including misclassification and meal and rest break violations.

Prior to joining Littler, Veronica worked for a popular online and mobile marketplace that matches freelance labor with local demand. She was exposed to the life cycle of business strategy, and understands the importance of keeping open communication with clients to attain business-minded solutions.

During law school, Veronica was senior notes editor for the Hastings Law Journal, a contracts teaching assistant for the Legal Education Opportunity Program (LEOP), as well as vice president of the La Raza Law Students Association and the Employment and Labor Law Students Association. She externed for the Hon. Consuelo B. Marshall of the U.S. District Court for the Central District of California. Veronica also studied international and comparative law at Bucerius Law School in Germany.
