Overview

Yne Machiels has been an attorney since September 2012. Her practice focuses on all aspects of human resources law, providing advice to clients and representing their interests before the courts.

She provides advice on all questions that may arise in the context of employment and self-employment, both on a collective and individual level in both the private and public sector. She also assists clients in the context of legal proceedings and social inspections. She has interest in questions related to privacy, international mobility, discrimination, whistleblowers, restructurings and dismissal files. Yne frequently assists foreign companies looking to develop their business in Belgium.

Yne also regularly speaks at seminars on employment-related topics.

Prior to joining Reliance in December 2015, Yne worked as an attorney at the firm Claeys & Engels from 2012 to 2015.
