Overview

José L. Maymí-González represents clients in federal, state, and administrative forums, including the EEOC. He counsels employers on a range of workplace topics, including handbooks and policies, hiring, leaves, and termination.

José works closely with clients to develop practical solutions that align with their business objectives while addressing complex employment law challenges. By pairing sound legal counsel with a service-focused approach, he helps employers navigate their workplace concerns.

During law school, José clerked at the U.S. District Court for the District of Puerto Rico and in the U.S. Department of Homeland Security at the Office of the Principal Legal Advisor. In addition, he worked as digital director of the University of Puerto Rico Law Review and participated in moot court competitions.

A former member of the U.S. Army National Guard, José served with distinction as an infantryman.
