Overview

Quinn Hartwig focuses his practice on labour and employment law matters.

Prior to joining Littler, he was an articling student at a Toronto business law firm supporting lawyers in labour and employment, commercial litigation, estate disputes, municipal, and sports and entertainment law. His work involved legal research, drafting, client communication, and advocacy support across a wide range of complex matters. He also was a summer associate with the firm.

During law school, Quinn served as a mentor to first-year students and led the In Vino Veritas wine club. In this role, he hosted fun and informative wine tastings for groups of 25 law students. After first year, Quinn worked as a research assistant in the field of copyright law. In this role, he prepared a report (based on Canadian precedent) designed to protect religious organizations from copyright infringement claims when using music during public events.
